LAYTON HOSTS NDP LEADERS' SUMMIT

Growing gap and electoral breakthrough to dominate discussions

OTTAWA – NDP Leader Jack Layton will host a historic provincial and territorial NDP leader's summit on Parliament Hill this Monday to discuss ways in which the NDP can make an electoral breakthrough. The key focus of the summit will be looking at measures to close the growing prosperity gap which is seeing middle-class families in every region of Canada to fall further and further behind.

All provincial and territorial NDP leaders, including Manitoba Premier Gary Doer are confirmed for the summit.
